HOUSTON. THROUGH TO MERCER STREET.

WOULD HANG THE DRIVER.

A Crowd of Infuriated Men Pursued Corvin.
Kendall Corvin, aged twenty-three, a driver for Carver, an Italian importer, at 44 Mulberry street, was held in the Yorkville Court today to await the appearance in court of seven-year-old Gustave Lachar, of 229 East Seventy-third street, who was run over yesterday by Corvin's wagon.
After the accident Corvin was pursued by a crowd of laborers, who were shouting: "Hang the dog!" Policemen were called and arrested Corvin.
The boy was sent to the Presbyterian Hospital. His foot was crushed, but he was not otherwise injured.

DELAY REFUSED ELLISON.

Recorder Smyth Says It's About Time He Is Considered.
Lawyer Charles W. Brooks, who is to defend "Bill" Ellison on his trial for his brutal assault on Broker William H. Henriques, went before Recorder Smyth in General Sessions this morning with District Attorney Nicoll.
Mr. Brooks wanted the Recorder to adjourn Ellison's trial to the first Monday in October. Mr. Nicoll was willing.
To Mr. Brooks the Recorder said: "I think it's about time I was considered in the matter. It's about time for you to remember that."

WIFE-BEATER HELD.

Moholland Says She Was Drunk, but She Denies It.
Mrs. Mary Moholland presented a terrible sight in the Jefferson Market Court this morning. She appeared as complainant against her husband, both eyes were blackened, and cuts, scratches and bruises adorned every portion of her face and neck.
In her arms she carried a babe five months old, and another about two years old toddled at her heels.
She complained that her husband, Joseph Moholland, aged twenty-six, came home to their apartments at 24 Morton street last night and beat and kicked her until she fell unconscious. Policemen and the Charles street station, heard her screams and arrested Moholland.
The latter is a decontending fellow and a machinist by trade. He said he came home from work last night and found his wife drunk.
Mrs. Moholland denied his story. Moholland was held for trial.
